Professional and Ethical Dilemmas in Litigation

This seminar will consist of two panels, both of which will consider a series of hypothetical situations which may arise in litigation. Each hypothetical will address at least one ethical, professional or legal dilemma which a litigator may face while representing a client. The panels will consist of judges (appellate and trial), and experienced litigation attorneys, all of whom were asked to participate in this seminar due to their experience with ethical and professional issues litigators wrestle with on a regular basis. Attendees will be encouraged to participate in the discussions and add their insights.
